A Ben Franklin for All Seasons

Monday, May 16th
7:00 pm

In his day, Benjamin Franklin was the most famous of all Americans and perhaps the most versatile creator since da Vinci.

David Houston, in the role of Franklin, quotes and amuses himself, alone at his desk. He has been asked to prepare a speech explaining his popularity and power, and he finds it difficult to keep a straight face; his comic alter-ego, Poor Richard, keeps springing to mind.

Join us for this theatrical presentation adapted from Franklin's writings and autobiographical sketches.
